EVANGELISM CONFERENCE TO BE GREAT

It seems that every spring our Conference on Revival and Soul Winning is better than the one before.

Who can forget the great conference we had last spring? The music was uplifting and inspiring. The preaching was some of the best that I have ever heard. Many are still talking about the 1987 conference.

Our 1988 conference will be held April 3-6. The meeting will be held in the activities building of the First Free Will Baptist Church in Raleigh, NC. This spacious meeting place will accommodate up to 1200 people. We are believing God to fill it to its capacity.

The lineup of speakers are some of God's choice servants. They will preach the Word of God with power. The names and pictures appear elsewhere on this page.

We encourage all of our pastors to attend and bring a good delegation from their churches. We are praying that all of our alumni will be present for this great meeting. We hope to organize an official Alumni Association for Southeastern Free Will Baptist College during this conference. This should be an exciting time for all our alumni and for our college.

Raleigh and the Research Triangle Area of North Carolina is one of the fastest growing areas in America. You will enjoy your visit to the Piedmont area of North Carolina. You will be excited and blessed when you take a tour of our new college campus. You will thrill to see what God has done in a few short months.

There is an abundance of good eating places and motels near the First Church where the conference will be held. The Econo Lodge (919-834-1801) and Red Roof Inn (919-834-8968) are only one half mile from the church. There are at least nine good restaurants and fast food eating places within one half mile of the church.

This great meeting will begin on Sunday evening at 7:00 p.m. and will continue through Wednesday night, April 6. See you then.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, DR. ANGE

Saturday, December 19, Dr. Ange, President of Southeastern Free Will Baptist College, celebrated his 65th birthday. In anticipation of this important milestone in his life, faculty, staff and students planned a big surprise birthday party.

The student body was divided into ten teams. The faculty and staff joined together to make up the eleventh team. Each team had a particular goal to reach in raising money for Southeastern in honor of Dr. Ange. The total amount to be raised, which would be given to Southeastern on his 65th birthday in his honor, was $65,000 — $1,000 for each year.

Everyone was excited and began immediately raising funds to help meet their goal. A great host of friends and pastors were contacted and many of them worked very diligently helping with this gigantic undertaking.

When the big night arrived, many of Dr. Ange's family came in for the celebration along with some out-of-town guests. Dr. and Mrs. Ange were each presented a very lovely suit of clothes along with a cash gift to take a week's vacation. Dr. Ange was also presented a Southeastern Free Will Baptist College ring.

Since the fund raising campaign was to extend through the Christmas break, an exact amount could not be given at the party. Cash and commitments at the time of the party totaled approximately $25,000 with a solemn pledge to work hard over the holiday to reach the other $40,000 through the checkbook system.

As of today, January 12, 1988, over $32,000 has been turned in on the project.

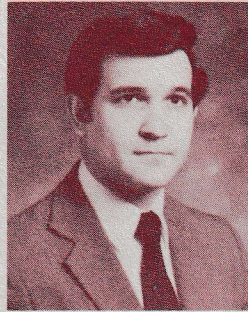

After the various gifts were presented, everyone enjoyed a delicious meal consisting of grilled rib-eye steak with all the trimmings. It was a very moving and enjoyable evening given to honor a man and his family who had contributed so much to reach a great host of souls for Christ under the banner of Free Will Baptist.

A great big "THANK YOU" to all those who helped to make this evening such a success.

HONORING CHRIST THROUGH SERVICE

In this transition year, God has opened the doors for our students to work in many area churches. Presently, they are ministering in 13 area Free Will Baptist churches. Our students are able to minister in all areas of local church work such as the bus ministry, Sunday School and children's churches. They are also able to help with the older members by being available for shut-in work.

The aim of Southeastern is that our students will be exposed to different areas of the local church ministry. They will learn by seeing the pastor and his laymen do the job which one day they will be doing themselves.

PRINCIPLE AND PRACTICE IN PASTORAL TRAINING

The very nature of a local church ministry is a combination of principle and practice. There must be Biblical principles that undergird doctrine and find their application in the realities of life. For that reason, Pastoral Theology students are taught both. There are a number of reasons why this approach of both principle and methodology is used, but the following highlights this:

First, to give content to one's calling there must be more than an emotional experience upon which to base one's life and work. Experience must be interpreted and directed by Biblical truth lest there be confusion about a divine call to the ministry. After all, anyone can claim to be called but only those whose life fits the Biblical standard may be approved. A practical result of this approach is that students who want to obey the Lord's will are given concrete measurements to guide them in making such a decision.

Secondly, students are acquainted with a methodology for ministry in today's society. Biblical truth never changes but its application regularly does as it relates to ways of ministry. A pastor must always ask, "How can we do the job better, more efficiently, be more useable and Christ honoring?" He must regularly adjust his methods that need to be re-evaluated. What works at one place and time may not at another, so he must be willing to change methods. Students are taught to never compromise Biblical truth, but to seek contemporary ways to apply God's word to life. As a result, they are given a modern perspective without modernist compromise.

Thirdly, to approach this field of study in this way means an "in touch" approach to teaching. To avoid an "ivory tower syndrome" where only the theoretical is taught, one must know the concrete realities of working with people. Soul winning must be the heartbeat of the professor as well as the student. Some truths are caught more than they can be taught. A Christian college that trains future pastors must be characterized by such.

SECOND MILE CAMPAIGN IS LAUNCHED

Director of Development Evangelist Van Dale Hudson is pleased to announce the SECOND-MILE debt reduction campaign in behalf of the college. Every friend of Southeastern is asked to give above and beyond their regular giving the amount of $120 for 1988. The amount can be given immediately or by signing a $10 checkbook for the year. The goal is to recruit at least 2500 contributors for this vital campaign. The details of the campaign are described in a colorful brochure being mailed to all possible givers.

March 27 has been set as SECOND-MILE SUNDAY for the churches which will help in this effort. On that day every participating church is asked to receive commitments and gifts and report the results to the Office of Development at 1-800-468-3111. A final total will be reported at the upcoming Conference on Evangelism and Soul-winning, April 3-6. A special meal will be served for all SECOND-MILERS present during the conference.

The SECOND-MILE effort is designed to raise adequate funds to meet the payments on bonds used to finance the new campus. It will be an ongoing effort from year to year until the land and buildings are debt-free. An appeal is made to every friend of the college to help meet this need. THIS IS A WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITY TO BE BLESSED AND TO BE A BLESSING.

NEW PERSONNEL

Southeastern is pleased to announce the appointment of Evangelist Van Dale Hudson as Director of Development. While continuing a busy schedule of revival meetings, Brother Hudson will also oversee the program of fundraising for the newly-built college campus. Brother Hudson will maintain his residence in Guin, Alabama.

Mrs. Pearlne Stepp was also recently employed to serve as Dietician. She comes to us from the Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church, Hookerton, North Carolina where she has served for 22 years as a bus captain. She was previously employed by Randa Corporation, Wall Street Division, in a managerial capacity.

Mrs. Lawanda Maddox has been named Dean of Women beginning second semester. She, along with her husband Jim, moved to Southeastern this fall where she has been Dorm Supervisor for the girls and he has been enrolled as student.

SPRING ENROLLMENT

Southeastern has a total of 123 students enrolled for the spring semester. Of this number, we have 45 dorm girls and 36 dorm boys.

Junior Class Sponsors "Clean-Up" Project

In an attempt to raise money for our college, members of the Junior Class undertook a work-a-thon project. Each member of the class saw the great needs of the college and decided to act in a way they believed could help meet some of the needs.

They did odd jobs around campus such as cleaning classrooms, administrative building and the campus grounds. They were able to raise approximately $275.00. Hats off to our juniors and a big "thank you" for a successful and worth-while project.

NEEDS!

Computer, commercial buffer, two PA systems suitable for traveling groups, 8-12 horsepower riding mower, one 20-24 inch push mower.

If you can help with one of these needs, please contact the college.

BONDS STILL AVAILABLE

We still have many choice bonds available with most dates ranging from 1½ years to 7 years. The interest on these bonds ranges from 9½% to 11½%.

By the time you read this article, four months of interest will have already accumulated. This should be a great incentive for many of our friends to purchase bonds and for those who have already purchased bonds to purchase additional bonds. This is a great way to invest for retirement purposes, for the education of children, etc.

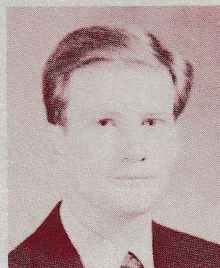

Please contact Dr. Ange at (919)365-7711 or (919) 266-6609.

Recently, people from Arkansas, North Carolina, Florida, Delaware and Tennessee have inquired about and purchased some of our bonds. Your immediate response will be greatly appreciated.

HAPPY TO BE ENROLLED AT SOUTHEASTERN

The Lord has taught me so much during the years that I have attended college here. Recently, God has reminded me that He has taught me something new every semester. Through this college, I have learned about prayer, soul winning and a daily walk with God. After attending college at Southeastern I look at the Bible in a different light. Instead of the Bible being a book that is hard to understand, I find it new, refreshing and practical for my life. I am glad I enrolled at Southeastern!

CAMPAIGN FOR LIBRARY BOOKS

Southeastern Free Will Baptist College is trying to increase the volumes in its library on a regular basis.

However, at our annual Conference on Evangelism, April 3-6, everyone attending will be given an opportunity to purchase one or more books for our library. We will have the books on hand and each individual will choose the price book he or she would like to purchase.

The book or books can be given as a gift to Southeastern with the name of the donor being placed inside the book. Also, the donor may purchase one or more books in honor of someone now living.

An opportunity will be given to purchase one or more books as a memorial of someone who has passed on.

Every friend of Southeastern is asked to make this a great matter of prayer and help us to greatly improve our library this spring.

By the way, pastors and friends of the college may bring a volume or volumes to contribute to the college from their own present library.

NEWS "BITS"

Visiting chapel speakers in recent days have been Pastors Mike Gladson, Billy Bevan, Randy Cox, Robert Durham, Jack Cox, James Avery, Roy Helms, and Wendell Town Council member, Ira Fuller.

Dr. and Mrs. Joe Haas have returned from a trip to France where they labored as missionaries for several years. Welcome home, Dr. and Mrs. Haas.

Equipment need supplied ... a Farmall tractor/-mower has been donated to Southeastern for use in keeping our campus beautiful. God is continually meeting our needs.
