"I'll Never Be the Same Again"...

...is not the response you would expect to hear from a group of students who have been together for ten days in the small confines of a bus, traveled through ice and snow, battled sickness, and journeyed almost 2000 miles.

Yet this is the response that was heard time after time as the Southeastern Sounds of Victory Choir returned to campus around midnight March 10 at the close of their 1996 choir tour. Many hours of practice, prayer, promotion and preparation had preceded the tour. But as the choir departed campus, Friday, March 3, no one knew what God had in store.

We have read about revival, we have heard men preach about revival, but during these ten days in March, the young people and staff alike would experience for themselves a taste of real revival.

Night after night, it seemed as though the songs came alive during the services, each one in its own unique way ministering to hearts. Through the singing and preaching that were anointed by God, churches in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Ohio were challenged, stirred, convicted and changed. The revival was evident not only in the congregations but choir members spent time each day in personal devotions and group devotions praying for one another as well as for the services.

As the week progressed, the Spirit of God became more real during each service. Choir members began to testify of a deeper commitment to the Lord, of the joy of leading others to Christ, and of a deepened confidence in the power of God.

By week's end, it was obvious that the response and impact of this tour was supernatural. Six precious souls were saved and churches have reported a spirit of revival that has lingered long after the choir departed. "I'll never be the same," is the natural response from a person who has had a true encounter with God.

Southeastern Free Will Baptist College hosted a Christian high school basketball tournament November 30-December 2, 1995. There were eight participating teams: Raleigh Christian Academy, NC; Faith Christian Academy, NC; Cramerton Christian Academy, NC; Bethel Christian Academy, NC; Mt. Calvary Christian Academy, NC; Inman Christian Academy, SC; Victory Christian Academy, MS, and Cornerstone Christian Academy, OK.

There were some great games and excellent sportsmanship displayed in the three-day tournament. The Raleigh Christian Academy Eagles won a hard fought battle for the tournament championship over the Victory Christian Academy Eagles of Columbus, MS, 53-51.

The tournament standings ended as follows: Raleigh Christian Academy, champions; Victory Eagles, 2nd place; Cornerstone, 3rd place and Mt. Calvary, 4th place.

We want to thank the pastors, coaches, and players for giving us a great tournament. A special thanks to Dr. Randy Cox for the use of the Raleigh facilities and to Dwight Ausley and Wayne Helder of Raleigh Christian Academy for their special assistance in making the tournament a success.
