THE HEART OF THE MATTER

What do you want to be when you enter into your life's work? Do you wish to be a pastor, director of evangelism, youth director, music director, missionary, bus director, evangelist, a church secretary or office worker? You may prepare for any of these and more at Southeastern. Next year at Southeastern, we will be celebrating our fifth anniversary in training workers for all the above mentioned Christian vocations.

During our fourth year of operation, Southeastern enrolled 188 resident students. Additional correspondence students made our enrollment over 200. This is truly great when only five years ago we had only $1,000 and a dream.

Southeastern is committed to thorough training of our students—heart, head and hand. We are training church planters. We are helping to prepare fervent, consistent soul winners. Our music program is producing qualified musicians, both vocal and instrumental. Able pastors and missionaries are being equipped for a lifetime of service around the world. Pastors and Christian academy principals are calling and visiting our campus regularly to employ our graduates for their programs.

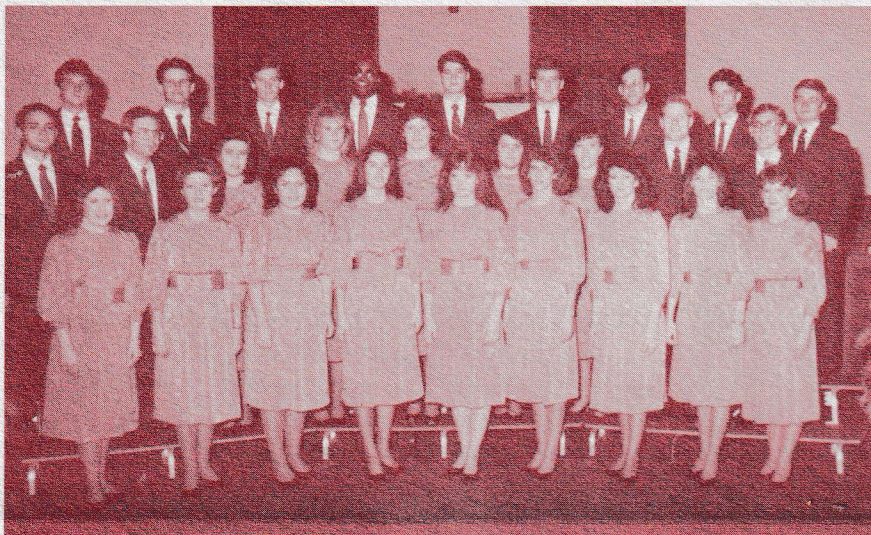

Joseph G. Ange
President

We will expand our programs as necessary to meet the needs of our people. The college has already added a major in music. Our School of Extension Studies has two different programs. We are offering an Associate Degree in Bible and Pastoral Training (60 hours) and a Bible Certificate Program (30 hours). Should a person desire a Bachelor Degree program later, all of our correspondence work may be applied toward a Bachelor Program. We invite you to enroll in our School of Extension Studies.

More than buildings, programs, teachers and staff, Southeastern Free Will Baptist College is an intensely Bible centered college where the Bible is the center piece of all learning. We stand without apology for the old-time religion—modesty, discipline with love, Biblical evangelism and Scriptural church growth. We stand for old-fashioned separation, personal and ecclesiastical. We stand for superlative academics designed to produce well-rounded leaders—spiritually, academically and culturally.

Should you attend Southeastern Free Will Baptist College? Perhaps so, if you are (1) young, middle-aged or older and committed to a life of service to God; (2) if you desire to be a fervent soul winner no matter what your life's work will be; (3) if you would like to enter Christian halls of learning in an atmosphere of Christian love.

TOOLS AND TRAINING

"So it came to pass in the day of battle, that there was neither sword nor spear found in the hand of any of the people."

I Samuel 13:22

Such was the situation in Israel during a dark and difficult time. The Philistine opposition presented an ever present threat to them. Leadership was shaky and largely untrained. God's people even had to look to the world to sharpen their instruments with which they earned their living (I Samuel 13:20: What an analogy against secular training for spiritual living!) Why was this the case? I Samuel 13:19 explains, "Now there was no smith found throughout all the land of Israel." They did not have skilled workers and an organization to provide the tools and equipment they needed for battle or for living.

Can you imagine a carpenter attempting to build a structure without tools or the skills to use them if he had them? Can you imagine a soldier entering a battle without weapons or training? In both situations the chances of success and victory are slim to say the least. So it is in Christian ministry where building and battling characterize the very essence of the work. One cannot expect much success in building up the body of Christ through soul winning and discipleship if he does not have the tools and skills for the job. One cannot expect many victories against the enemies of the Church if he is defenseless and untrained for battle.

In His matchless wisdom, the Lord has established in His Word the principles of Christian Ministry and the pattern for equipping Christian workers (cf. Eph. 4:11-16, II Tim. 2:2 f.f.). Though one may be very sincere and eager for service, this is not enough to be effective. And, as the case is so often, sincerity and enthusiasm soon wanes because of failures and mistakes due to misguided efforts.

Historically, the Church has recognized the principle for training and established related organizations to meet the need. Based upon a Biblical philosophy of education, institutions have been built to prepare those who want their zeal to be tempered with knowledge. Southeastern Free Will Baptist College represents a contemporary effort to prepare young people for Christian ministry in today's world. Resting squarely upon the inerrancy and authority of Scripture, given to coupling academic and practical learning and committed to the centrality of the local church as the proper channel for service, a veteran faculty and staff seeks to train students for success in building and battling.

Most of the time local churches do not have the resources on their own to establish a college level program of instruction. However, through the combined efforts of many of like faith and philosophy, the need can be met. Surely no one today would try to argue that the equipping of tomorrow's leadership requires more than periodic seminars and conferences (as good as those may be). The challenges of the present hour and especially those of the future require the sustained discipline of study that only a college level program can provide.

Given the great needs of today, the challenge of tomorrow and the divinely established calling of those who are to "equip the saints for the work of the ministry," Southeastern college is seeking to provide the appropriate tools and training in our movement of the Lord's work.
